Re: The exercise date for conversion of preferred shares into ordinary shares

Dear Madam,

Reference is made to the fact that The Siam Commercial Bank Public Company Limited issued and distributed 2,500,000,000 preferred shares in April 1999. In this connection, the term of such preferred shares is 10 years commencing from 10 May 1999 and the holders thereof may exercise their rights every 3 months to convert such preferred shares into ordinary shares at the ratio of 1 preferred share per 1 ordinary share, i.e. on 31 March, 30 June, 30 September, and 31 December, annually.

Please be advised that the preferential rights of the Bank's preferred shares expired on 10 May 2009. In this regard, Article 3(3) of the Bank's Articles of Association sets forth the rule that should the preferential rights of the Bank's preferred shares expire, the preferential right of such preferred shares will automatically be ended where all rights under such preferred shares will be the same as those of ordinary shares and such preferred shares must be converted into ordinary shares.

Thus, after the preferential right under the preferred shares expired as aforementioned holders of preferred shares who have not converted the preferred shares into ordinary shares, can still exercise their rights to convert them into ordinary shares. Please be informed that the exercise date for conversion of preferred shares into ordinary shares is 31 March 2010. Details and procedure are as follows:
